

bologna

>university? that is a parallel city, about which one still knows less. students, who come and go all over Italy, throwing seminars and attending them suddenly again, staying at friends and relatives, who sublease, but always illicit and without receipt and I.D. <carlo lucarelli -> almost blue < collective one of experience shift today into the exception worlds of the clubbings, to the everyday life, however the dwelling applies as bricked fortress of the private luck. the fact, that against this trend also concepts have a chance which consciously opposes to the retreat in the private, shows this project.

>torri pendenti-torri studenti<

the >torri pendenti< lay in the parco della montagnola, a public space in the center of bologna. they take a symbiotic relation to their environment and submerge in it. In order to keep up hiding and seeking, they will become a chameleon, and start a relationship with this park. the >torri studenti< and landscape grow together, without one of both penetrates into the other one. Merely preparations are made, in order to enable the process of growing together.

